WILD GOOSE CHASE

WILD GOOSE CHASE is a twelve-inch block, an especial favorite for a little patchwork pillow or chair seat. Or it makes a might attractive quilt set together with alternating twelve-inch squares of the light blue, really more effective than with white squares.

Of course other colors than the ones suggested on the pattern may be substituted -any dark and light with white "geese." It pieces in the manner shown in the very small sketches, being mostly a problem of sewing tiny blue triangles on to white ones and joining them properly into strips. A continuing strip of flying geese makes a most charming quilt border.

Add seams to the unit patterns here given. Five blocks wide by six long will make a center 60 by 72 inches. Around this sew a 2-inch border of light blue, then a pieced border of flying geese and a 3-inch border of light blue to finish. Bind in dark blue.

Material estimate: For this plan, allow 2 yards white, 3 yards dark blue, and 5 1/2 vards light blue.

The Spiderweb, number 263 at 25 cents, could be stamped on the alternate squares or a larger pattern like "President's Wreath," No. 328, 25 cents, as the large light blue triangles of the pieced blocks join the 12-inch plain blue squares.
